

Bringing expertise to bear where it really matters – implementation on the ground

THE COMPANY

For R. P. Delio & Company, truly delivering success for our projects and programs means bringing expertise to bear where it really matters – implementation on the ground. Our principal consultants know that a project stands or falls on the quality of its installation management. Experience, across a score of complex system and facility installations, has taught them this – and made them able to deftly deal with all that on-site installations can throw at them.

A practical, flexible and detail-focussed approach to installations can be tracked back to the company's origins as an electrical services company. A decade or more of experience in electrical installations helped hone our pragmatic attitude – and to reinforce the primacy of developing, and adhering to, safety and engineering specifications. That way a 'project-in-waiting' is readily transformed into an installation 'operating-beyond-expectations'.

Our installation services cover a wide range of technologies, environments, and deployment approaches, building on skill-sets that include:

> Clean Environmental Energy Installation

- Commercial-scale roof-top and ground-array PV
- Small wind turbines
- Biogas co-generation

> Grid Technology Deployment

- Smart grid
- Energy storage
- Subsurface T&D

> Manufacturing Facilities Installation

- Photolithography
- Data-centers
- Combined Heat & Power units
- Wet-etch tools
- High-purity gas systems

> Electrical Installation

- High-voltage equipment
- Lighting rigs and floodlights
- Power distribution systems

THE R. P. DELIO APPROACH

Our approach to service provision and consultancy is guided by three principles, helping to ensure that 'process' doesn't deflect from the achieving of our client's goals:

> Pragmatism – success is not delivered through dogma and theory.

We believe that success is ultimately underpinned by action grounded in the real world

> Client-tailored – there is no such thing as an 'off-the-shelf' solution.

We believe in the fundamental value of applying common sense to individual client situations

> Result-focused – we believe in providing concrete, tangible and long-lasting solutions to your biggest challenges

R. P. Delio & Company have been Engineering Program Success since 1989; with us as your partner, your vision for transformation can, and will, be made real.
